

Above Your Heads - Black Ops, Star Wars Or ET?

Contributed by Administrator
Thursday, 13 December 2007
Last Updated Saturday, 26 June 2010

!-Updated-! British researcher Gary McKinnon is currently due to be extradited to the USA to face a long jail sentence for gaining entry to several major US military networks. His main reason for doing so was to find out once and for all if NASA were indeed airbrushing anomalous objects from stock photos and also to locate proof of free energy systems that are linked to the ET/UFO phenomena because in the UK, in the 21st century "we have the elderly dying of cold because they cannot afford to keep the heating on".

Read on for more. This issue is discussed as part of a couple of recent video presentations.

See last part of Higher Than the H-Bomb and the short video session at the 1400 attended Exopolitics Europe Summit.here [minus a few failed videos due to tech errors].

McKinnon found the first evidence.

He also claimed to have found some evidence that backs up much of what the exopolitical field have thought to be the case for some time - a separate space program. On his network travels he found references to non-terrestrial officers and also sheets listing details of fleet-to-fleet transfers - when he searched for the names given to the 'ships' in Navy seagoing lists, they did not exist

{youtube}NJF2bdlabvk{/youtube}

Comment on JLW space machines

Now an astronomer has begun publishing stills and video of huge craft filmed through his telescope. These images bare no resemblance to the usual satellites or shuttle shapes we're used to. And we know that both Gary and John Lenard Walson are delving into areas designed to be kept secret because they're both feeling the wrath of the US military. McKinnon on a trumped up charge of causing $millions in "damage" and Walson who has filmed countless low flyovers by military helicopters above his residence.

The narrator of the above video makes some good points.

The fact remains that these objects:

- Cannot have been transported in the space shuttle
- No NASA information led us to believe that STS missions were spending time building these huge objects in orbit

This leaves us with the notion that an alternative method of launching and/or building these objects is in use by terrestrial organisations.

A similar situation was pointed out by Dr Pete Peterson when he was video'd in 2009 with regard the International Space Station. The Russian's accidently released the gross weight of the ISS - including it's anti-radiation 'lead shielding' which is necessary for human protection long term in the space environment. Dr Peterson worked out that there had not been sufficient launches of any currently known and suitable vehicle to take this gross weight into orbit. He hinted at a supplementary space fleet/vehicle with "alternative" power and engineering systems or possibly some human-ET shared technology.

Take a look at the images and article on Rense.com.

See the quote I received after locating a NASA / JPL employee and asking them to comment on JLWs 'space machines' - this person said:

..although they asked me to remove the "human" part after claiing that was an error.

Image taken from Exopolitics Europe Summit where that info and JLWs work was briefly discussed in a talk.